Where We're Coming From

Where We're Coming From

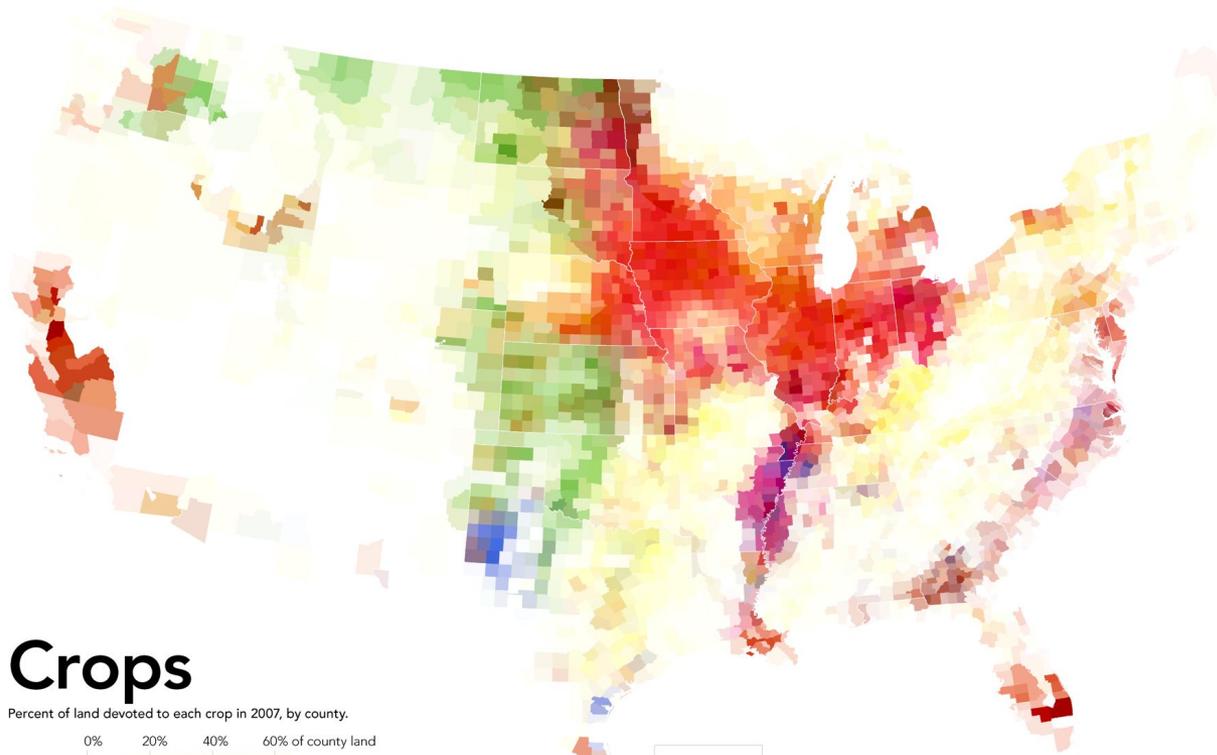

More than 50 million people in this country were food insecure. (That's 1 in 6.)
(Right now it's more 42 million, or closer 1 in 7.)

Where We're Coming From

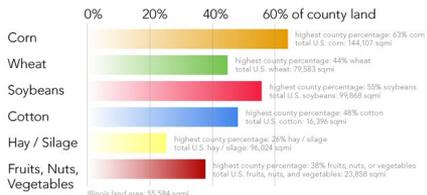

10% of our national energy budget is used for food production

Crops

Percent of land devoted to each crop in 2007, by county.

All maps shown at the same scale using equal-area projections. Data from the 2007 U.S. Census of Agriculture. Map by Bill Rankin, 2009.

No cartographically meaningful agriculture in Alaska. Only inhabited islands shown.

50% of our land area is used for food production

Where We're Coming From

80% of our freshwater is used for food production

Where We're Coming From

More than 40% of the food produced in the US is wasted

What We're Working On

Over 2.3 million lbs. of food redistributed!

What We're Working On

85% Bike-Powered

Where We're Working On

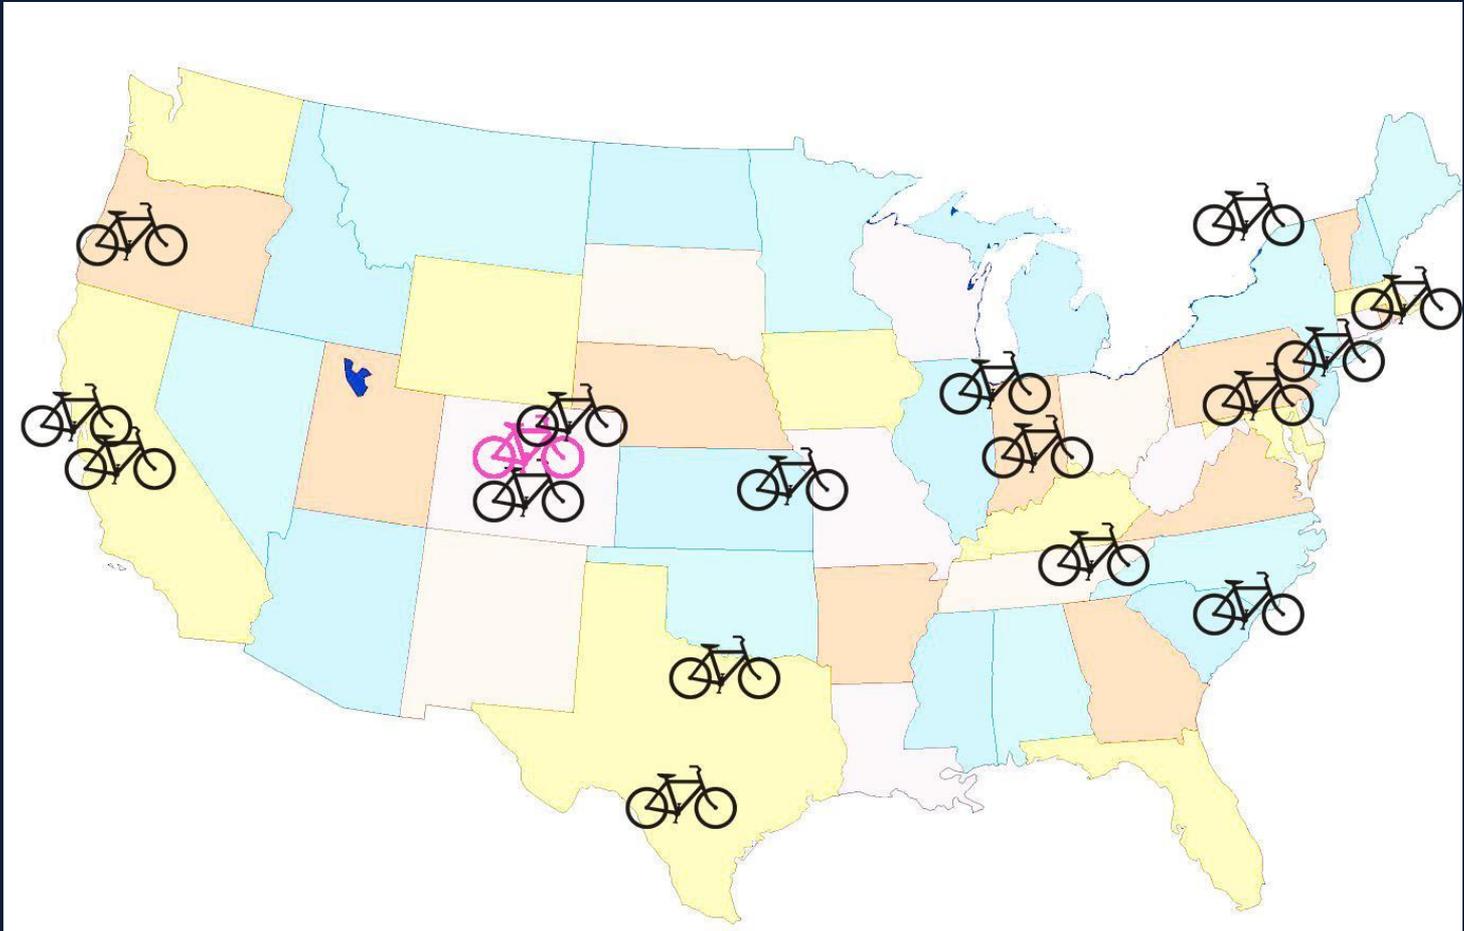

150 Active Volunteers

What We're Working On

Average 12 Pick-ups a day, 1500 lbs of food per day, 15 donors,
40 Recipient Organizations

Where We're Going

We are becoming a national operation.

What We're Working On

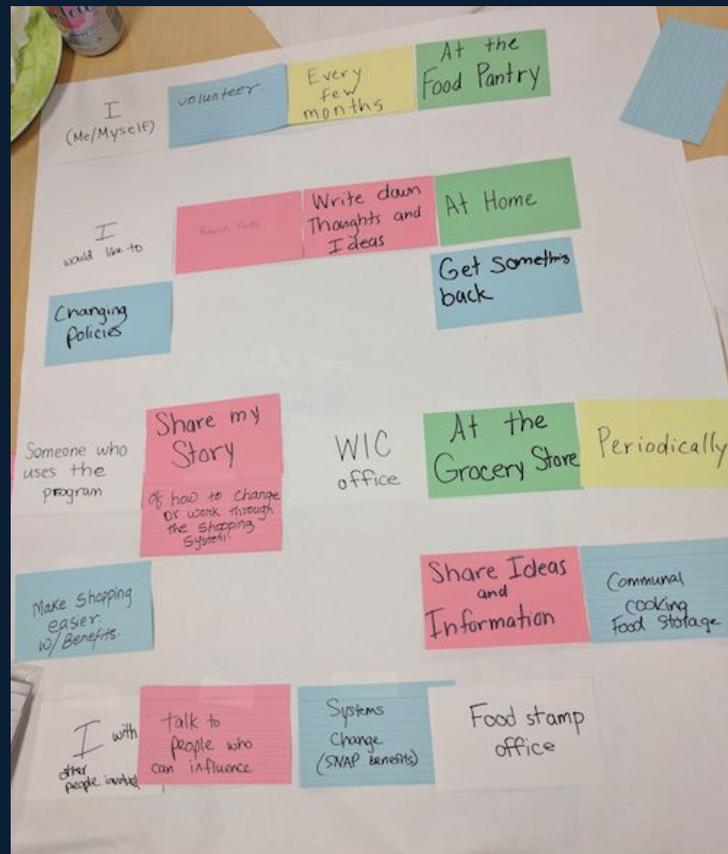

We are forming more effective collaborations with food donors and other food redistribution and waste diversion agencies.

What We're Working On

We work with people to design their own food redistribution programs. We are constantly working to make our systems more participatory and based in participant feedback.

Where We're Going

We've been working on Community Based Research to better understand food access and how people want to be more involved in their own systems of food access.
